THE PUBLIC ADVERTISING .- Our neighbors of the Southern Press are in a controversy about the public advertising. The editors of the Press declare that they have proved to the heads of the departments that their paper has a larger permanent subscription list than either the Intelligencer, the Union, or the Republic. The last-named three papers get the public advertising, worth to each something like $3,000 a

The law upon the subject (an appropriation act) of March 3, 1845, reads as follows:

"That in all cases where proposals for any contract or contracts to be made by any of the Executive departments or bureaus; in all cases where notices of any description issuing from the same are now required by law to be adver-tised, the same shall be advertised by publication in the two newspapers in the city ington having the largest permanent subscrip-tion; and, at the discretion of the Executive, in any third paper that may be published in said city; provided that the charges for such publications shall not be higher than such as are paid by individuals for advertising in said papers; and provided, also, that the said pub-lications shall be made in each of said papers equally as to frequency."

The editors of the Press declare that, notwithstanding their permanent subscription has been proved, to the members of the Cabinet, to withstanding the plain letter, and command, of persists in giving the public advertisements to ment? the Intelligencer, Union, and Republic, and refusing them to the Press.

One of the grounds alleged for this line of to destroy and break up the Union; and that Mr. Fillmore declined receiving it, uncondiengaged in destroying the Union.

We abhor the doctrines of secession, nullification, and disunion. But if they are to be practised, if the laws are to be disregarded, set at naught and trampled under foot, we had time. The editor here teleistration setting itself, during its brief authority, above the people, its legitimate masters.

But we do not design, at this writing, to discuss the doctrine of secession or disunion. We make a clean breast of it, and confess that we are after the public advertisements ourselves. Our paper is going ahead triumphantly, with a of all four of the other daily papers in this city. We are ready, at all events, to compare notes with that one of the four which claims to have the largest daily circulation, the respectable Intelligencer, and see whether the young Telegraph is not already ahead of it, and consequently entitled to the list of letters remaining in the city post-office, in the shape of an occasional advertisement. If we are not already entitled to that list of letters, we mean soon to be, and also to be entitled to all the other public advertisements. We are wide awake. We know that we are right, and we are going ahead. We will deserve success, and we feel assured that the people will take care that we have it.

Upon this subject the New York Herald of which we make the following extracts:

The only questions are, which two papers have 'the largest permanent subscription, and are their charges to Government 'not higher than such as are paid by individuals,' and are the advertisements in each paper made 'equally as to frequency?' The Southern Press, several weeks ago, proved, we understand, that it has 'the largest permanent subscription,' larger than either the Union, Republic, Telegraph, National Eru, or Intelligencer. We have no doubt of the fact, and that the National Era is next to it. The other papers (except the little Telegraph) have become enervated, dull, spiritless, uninteresting, and the public generally, for some time past, take little interest in them; whereas the two prints specified have at least one idea' apiece that they sustain with spirit and ability. If the fact is as claimed by the Southern Press, it has a strict legal right to this printing, and one which, it appears to us, the courts in the District of Columbia, following the devision in Mr. Kendall's case, would sustain upon mandamus. The law is imperative. A refusal to obey its directions would be a good ground for the impeachment of any functionary.

The President is sworn to take care that 'the laws are faithfully executed.' He is bound to see that his subordinates do not disregard and violate it. It is of little moment whether the violation is from partisan partiality or ignorance. In such cases, the crime is in the act. When the terms of the law are unmistakeable. the culpability of the motive is inferable. An honest motive will not excuse such illegal act upon an impeachment. The law must be "The delay that has ensued as to the definite decision of this business, is, perhaps, attributa-ble to the continued absence of some two or more of the administration for several weeks past. It should be settled forthwith. The ident should attend to it. It is his especial duty. He certainly does not divide up his of-ficial conscience and his convictions of duty into eight parts, giving to each one of his cabinet a share, and retaining one share for himself. If so, he ought to constrain the "fugimembers (we mean those absent from their offices) to surrender their respective eighths when they go off. We learn that the cabinet do not all agree on this subject, and that those who do agree take dissimilar grounds. One, we learn, has taken to cyphering to get out of the snarl, and proves by figures that it takes six weekly subscribers to equal one daily, as the latter gets his papers six times a week; and by this process the Southern Press is left in the vocative. We should be glad to hear the ident's views. A quondam Acting Secretary, we learn, rests the case on the absurdity of giving the printing of the government to any press that is striving to break it up; and it is nored that, as a set-off to this, the Southern Pross declares its partiotic disposition to give at least ten thousand dollars a year of the profits to sustain the federal Union on constitutional principles, &c. Why are not the parday, will take out $400,000 in specie.

ticulars of this business made public? Are there more State secret ? Delicacy should not restrain the Southern Press from making a full exposition of the whole matter. Give us the whole truth. We want the documents they are worth a dozen cart loads of arguments and rigmarole reasonings. Let the public have the facts. Publish Mr. Graham's decision. Make known Mr. Corwin's opinions. Did he forget your generous endorsement of his conduct in respect to the Florida and Mexican claims? What did Messrs. Stuart and Conrad say? and how did the great expounder of the State Department expound the statute in such case made and provided?"

Mr. Webster's Movements. The following telegraphic despatch from

Washington appeared in yesterday's New York Herald: "WASHINGTON, Aug. 14, 1851 .- It is stated, upon authority which leaves no room for doubt, that Mr. Webster will not return to this city as Secretary of State. He will remain away till about the assembling of Congress, when he will tender his resignation. The position which his friends have placed him in renders it, in his opinion, indelicate that he should remain in the abinet." We have not a doubt of the entire truth of the foregoing announcement, so far as Mr. Webster's mind is at present made up. But may he not see cause to change his mind once more by November next, and conclude to hold on, yet awhile longer, to the office of Secretary of State?

This world, we are sorry to confess, is greatly given to lying. Who does not remember the be the largest of the four papers named, and not- contradictory official statements which were nade in the newspapers, a few weeks ago, about the law in the matter, the Administration still Mr. Webster's resignation of the State Depart-

A friend to both the President and the Secre tary of State telegraphed the New York Courier and Enquirer, that Mr. Webster had tenconduct, on the part of the Administration, is dered his resignation to Mr. Fillmore, in a spisaid to be this: that the Press openly advocates rit of kindness, and expressed a desire to go the doctrines of secession, which doctrine seeks to Europe for the benefit of his health: that the Administration, which is seeking to preserve tionally, and persuaded Mr. Webster to go in the Union, is not bound in morality, ethics, or pursuit of his health, without positively resignlaw, to afford "aid and comfort," in the shape ing his office as Secretary of State; and that of the public advertisements, to any newspaper Mr. Webster left the President with the best sort of good feelings, and with the understand-We dissent from this position, said to have ing that his resignation should be held in abev-

This announcement created quite a sensation in New York. Many telegraphic despatches came to this city to different persons, inquiring if the news could be true. One of the editors of the New York Express was in this city at the graphed back, on the best authority, that there was no truth in the despatch to the Courier and Enquirer.

The editor of the New York Commercial Advertiser, the personal and political friend of the Secretary of State, telegraphed Mr. Webster himself to know if there was truth in the andaily circulation already which certainly ex- nouncement, and received, by telegraph, this ceeds any one of three, and we are pretty sure emphatic reply from Mr. Webster's own hand: "Contradict. Not a word of truth in it."

Now, was not this enough to make the people all believe the Courier and Enquirer's telegraphic announcement a false piece of news?

And yet, it was all true! Mr. Webster had suddenly changed his great mind; that was all. But subsequently, after his arrival at the North, he changed his great mind again on that very subject. While he was sojourning at the Lebanon Springs, a confidential friend of his wrote from Lebanon to the Boston Transcript a very careful and minute account of the interview and the conversation between Mr. Fillmore and Mr. Webster, at the Executive mansion, on the occasion when Mr. Webster tendered his resignation. Even the style of the letter of resignation was alluded to, as if the writer at Lebanon had yesterday has some pertinent remarks, from seen the letter, or a copy of it. He described it as being couched in that pure, classical vein which characterizes Mr. Webster's official correspondence with Lord Ashburton, with the Austrian minister, &c.

After this we think the public should receive any foreshadowing of Mr. Webster's future movements, which may have Mr. Webster himself for their authenticity, with very many grains of allowance. That's our opinion, and we don't care who knows it.

CHARITY.-It has never failed to win esteem and love, not even of the most benighted and degraded; and how powerful is it over the heart of a grateful man! A correspondent of the Baltimore Clipper, writing from this city,

"There is certainly much distress among th poor of our city-all cities-of which tho comfortable circumstances seldom dream. Last Sunday, a tract distributor, while attending to his colporteurage on the Point, met with a family who had not a sufficient amount even of bread to eat. 'The wife was sick on the bed in a cheerless room, with a child that could run about; the husband was perfectly disabled and supported by a crutch, having hurt his leg some time ago, and from which several pieces of bone had been removed. It is feared that amputation may be necessary. They informed my friend that they had lived on three dollars and eighteen cents during the last eight weeks!

It is hoped that the temporal in heart (not in mere profession) will do something for this and similar cases, for there are many such. All who feel so disposed can hand what they choose to give to Mr. Gray, at his bookstore on Seventh street; and we promise them that it will be faithfully applied by the members of We have always thought the Tract Society. But in all this time the thing itself, it appears to us, might have been brought along. This is the way in which dancers, actors, singers, and "lions" are heralded. Now, if this is not a humbug, let us have it without more ado. Our own anxiety will prove an incendiary, and burn us up. The "New York American House, Boston," is hardly puffed so

NEGRO EXCLUSION.—The people of Indiana, by a majority of about 20,000, have adopted that clause of the constitution which excludes free negroes from that State. Indiana is a free State, filled with rank Abolitionists, who have manifested their respect and love for the colored population in a manner which, if done by a slave State, would have been denounced as a piece of pro-slavery inhumanity.

DEATH BY BRANDY .- Andrew Sald, fourteen years of age, a pedlar boy, employed by John Stoll, in New York, was the other day induced by some man to drink a tumbler of brandy, on the promise of being paid a sum of money. Of course he died. Many, indeed, die daily from drinking it in half-gill doses.

A Pic-Nic .- We commend to the attention of all persons disposed to enjoy a day of innocent pleasure, the advertisement of a Pic-nic at Arlington to be given by the "Germania" of this city. Our acquaintance with members of this excellent Singing Society warrants the belief that every thing will be discreetly managed and well conducted, and that pleasure and hilarity unalloyed by aught that can be condemned by any will mark the pastimes of the day. May cheering sun shine down upon them !

TO BE REPENTED AT LEISURE.-The Tribune says that six young men of New York, who had accompanied an excursion party to Fort Hamilton, on Wednesday, were suddenly seized with the gold fever, and making some excuse to their friends, returned home, packed up their clothes, and departed for California in the steamer Georgia. Some of them are married men, and had their wives with them on the excursion. who were ignorant of their busbands' intention until they arrived home, when they were made acquainted with the facts.
